PREFACE TO THE FOURTH EDITION.

The favor with which the successive editions of "Beówulf" have been received during the past thirteen years emboldens the editors to continue the work of revision in a fourth issue, the most noticeable feature of which is a considerable body of explanatory Notes, now for the first time added. These Notes mainly concern themselves with new textual readings, with here and there grammatical, geographical, and archeological points that seemed worthy of explanation. Parallelisms and parallel passages are constantly compared, with the view of making the poem illustrate and explain itself. A few emendations and textual changes are suggested by the editors with all possible diffidence; numerous corrections have been made in the Glossary and List of Names; and the valuable parts of former Appendices have been embodied in the Notes.

For the Notes, the editors are much indebted to the various German periodicals mentioned on page 116, to the recent publications of Professors Earle and J. L. Hall, to Mr. S. A. Brooke, and to the Heyne-Socin edition of "Beówulf." No change has been made in the system of accentuation, though a few errors in quantity have been corrected. The editors are looking forward to an eventual fifth edition, in which an entirely new text will be presented.

NOTE TO THE THIRD EDITION.

fins third edition of the American issue of Beówulf will, the editors hope, be found more accurate and useful than either of the preceding editions. Further corrections in text and glossary have been made, and some additional new readings and suggestions will be found in two brief appendices at the back of the book. Students of the metrical system of Beówulf will find ample material for their studies in Sievers' exhaustive essay on that subject (Beitrage, X. 209-314).

Socin's edition of Heyne's Beowulf (called the fifth edition) has been utilized to some extent in this edition, though it unfortunately came too late to be freely used. While it repeats many of the omissions and inaccuracies of Heyne's fourth edition, it contains much that is valuable to the student, particularly in the notes and commentary. Students of the poem, which has been subjected to much searching criticism during the last decade, will also derive especial help from the contributions of Sievers and Kluge on difficult questions appertaining to it. Wülker's new edition (in the Grein Bibliothek) is of the highest value, however one may dissent from particular textual views laid down in the Berichtigter Text.' Paul and Braune's Beitrage contain a varied miscellany of hints, corrections, and suggestions principally embodying the views of Kluge, Cosijn, Sievers, and Bugge, some of the more important of which are found in the appendices to the present and the preceding edition. Holder and Zupitza, Sarrazin and Hermann Möller (Kiel, 1883), Heinzel (Anzeiger f. d. Alterthum, X.), Gering (Zacher's Zeitschrift, XII.), Brenner (Eng. Studien, IX.), and the contributors to Anglia, have assisted materially in the textual and metrical interpretation of the poem.

The subject of Anglo-Saxon quantity has been discussed in several able essays by Sievers, Sweet, Ten Brink (Anzeiger, f. d. Alterthum, V.), Kluge Beitrage, XI.), and others; but so much is uncertain in this field that the editors have left undisturbed the marking of vowels found in the text of their original edition, while indicating in the appendices the now accepted views of scholars on the quantity of the personal pronouns (mê, wê, pû, pê, gê, hê); the adverb nû, etc. Perhaps it would be best to banish absolutely all attempts at marking quantities except in cases where the Ms. has them marked.

An approximately complete Bibliography of Beówulf literature will be found in Wulker's Grundruss and in Garnett's translation of the poem.

NOTE TO THE SECOND REVISED EDITION.

The editors feel so encouraged at the kind reception accorded their edition of Beówulf (1883), that, in spite of its many shortcomings, they have determined to prepare a second revised edition of the book, and thus endeavor to extend its sphere of usefulness. About twenty errors had, notwithstanding a vigilant proof-reading, crept into the text, - errors in single letters, accents, and punctuation. These have been corrected, and it is hoped that the text has been rendered generally accurate and trustworthy. List of Names one or two corrections have been made, and in the Glossary numerous pustakes in gender, classification, and translation, apparently unavoidable in a first edition, have been rectified. Wherever these mustakes concern single letters, or occupy very small space, they have been corrected in the plates; where they are longer, and the expense of correcting them in the plates would have been very great, the editors have thought it best to include them in an Appendix of Corrections and Additions, which will be found at the back of the book. Students are accordingly referred to this Appendix for important longer corrections and additions. It is believed that the value of the book has been much enhanced by an Appendix of Recent Readings, based on late criticisms and essays from the pens of Sievers, Kluge, Cosijn, Holder, Wulker, and Sweet. A perplexed student, in turning to these suggested readings, will often find great help in unravelling obscure or corrupt passages.

The objectionable ä and æ, for the short and the long diphthong, have been retained in the revised edition, owing to the impossibility of removing them without entirely recasting the plates.

In conclusion, the editors would acknowledge their great indebtedness to the friends and critics whose remarks and criticisms have materially aided in the correction of the text,—particularly to Profs. C. P. G. Scott, Baskervill, Price, and J. M. Hart; to Prof.
J. W. Bright; and to the authorities of Cornell University, for the loan of periodicals necessary to the completeness of the revision.
While the second revised edition still contains much that might be improved, the editors cannot but hope that it is an advance on its predecessor, and that it will continue its work of extending the study of Old English throughout the land.

NOTE I.

THE present work, carefully edited from Heyne's fourth edition, (Paderborn, 1879), is designed primarily for college classes in Anglo-Saxon, rather than for independent investigators or for seekers after a restored or ideal text. The need of an American edition of "Beówulf" has long been felt, as, hitherto, students have had either to send to Germany for a text, or secure, with great trouble, one of the scarce and expensive English editions. Heyne's first edition came out in 1863, and was followed in 1867 and 1873 by a second and a third edition, all three having essentially the same text

So many important contributions to the "Beówulf" literature were, however, made between 1873 and 1879 that Heyne found it necessary to put forth a new edition (1879). In this new, last edi tion, the text was subjected to a careful revision, and was fortified by the views, contributions, and criticisms of other zealous scholars, In it the collation of the unique "Beówulf" Ms. (Vitellius A. 15: Cottonian Mss. of the British Museum), as made by E. Kolbing in Herrig's Archiv (Bd. 56; 1876), was followed wherever the present condition of the Ms. had to be discussed; and the researches of Bugge, Rieger, and others, on single passages, were made use of. The discussion of the metrical structure of the poem, as occurring in the second and third editions, was omitted in the fourth, owing to the many controversies in which the subject is still involved. The present editor has thought it best to do the same, though, happily, the subject of Old English Metrik is undergoing a steady illumination through the labors of Schipper and others.

xii NOTE L

Some errors and misplaced accents in Heyne's text have been corrected in the present edition, in which, as in the general revision of the text, the editor has been most kindly aided by Prof. J. M. Garnett, late Principal of St. John's Coflege, Maryland

In the preparation of the present school edition it has been thought best to omit Heyne's notes, as they concern themselves principally with conjectural emendations, substitutions of one reading for another, and discussions of the condition of the Ms. Until Wulker's text and the photographic fac-simile of the original Ms. are in the hands of all scholars, it will be better not to introduce such matters in the school room, where they would puzzle without instructing.

For convenience of reference, the editor has added a head-line to each "fit" of the poem, with a view to facilitate a knowledge of its episodes.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY, LEXINGTON, VA., June, 1882.

NOTE II.

THE editors now have the pleasure of presenting to the public a complete text and a tolerably complete glossary of "Beówulf." The edition is the first published in America, and the first of its special kind presented to the English public, and it is the initial volume of a "Library of Anglo-Saxon Poetry," to be edited under the same auspices and with the cooperation of distinguished scholars in this country. Among these scholars may be mentioned Professors F. A. March of Lafayette College, T. R. Price of Columbia College, and W. M. Baskervill of Vanderbilt University.

In the preparation of the Glossary the editors found it necessary to abandon a literal and exact translation of Heyne for several reasons, and among others from the fact that Heyne seems to be wrong in the translation of some of his illustrative quotations, and even translates the same passage in two or three different wavs under different headings. The orthography of his glossary differs considerably from the orthography of his text. He fails to discriminate with due nicety the meanings of many of the words in his vocabulary, while criticism more recent than his latest edition (1879) has illustrated or overthrown several of his renderings. The references were found to be incorrect in innumerable instances, and had to be verified in every individual case so far as this was possible, a few only, which resisted all efforts at verification, having to be indicated by an interrogation point (?). The references are exceedingly numerous, and the labor of verifying them was naturally great. To many passages in the Glossary, where Heyne's translation could not be trusted with entire certainty, the editors have added other translations of phrases and sentences or of special words; and in this they have been aided by a careful study of the text and a comparison and utilization of the views of Kemble and Professor J. M. Garnett (who takes Grein for his foundation). Many new references have been added; Xiv NOTE II.

and the various passages in which Heyne fails to indicate whether a given verb is weak or strong, or fails to point out the number, etc., of the illustrative form, have been corrected and made to harmonize with the general plan of the work. Numerous misprints in the glossary have also been corrected, and a brief glossary to the Finnsburh-fragment, prepared by Dr. Win. Hand Browne, and supplemented and adapted by the editor-in-chief, has been added.

The editors think that they may without immodesty put forth for themselves something more than the claim of being re-translators of a translation: the present edition is, so far as they were able to make it so, an adaptation, correction, and extension of the work of the great German scholar to whose loving appreciation of the Anglo-Saxon epic all students of Old English owe a debt of gratitude. While following his usually sure and cautious guidance, and in the main appropriating his results, they have thought it best to deviate from him in the manner above indicated, whenever it seemed that he was wrong. The careful reader will notice at once the marks of interrogation which point out these deviations. or which introduce a point of view illustrative of, or supplementary to, the one given by the German editor. No doubt the editors are wrong themselves in many places, - "Beówulf" is a most difficult poem, - but their view may at least be defended by a reference to the original text, which they have faithfully and constantly consulted.

A good many cognate Modern English words have been introduced here and there in the Glossary with a view to illustration, and other addenda will be found between brackets and parenthetical marks.

It is hoped that the present edition of the most famous of Old English poems will do something to promote a valuable and interesting study

ARGUMENT.

The only national [Anglo-Savon] epic which has been preserved entire is Beówulf. Its argument is briefly as follows .- The poem opens with a few verses in praise of the Danish Kings, especially Scild, the son of Sceaf His death is related, and his descendants briefly traced down to HroSgar Hoolgar, elated with his prosperity and success in war, builds a magnificent hall, which he calls Heorot hall HroSgar and his retainers live in joy and festivity, until a malignant fiend, called Grendel, jealous of their happiness, carries off by night thirty of Hrodgar's men, and devours them in his moorland re-These ravages go on for twelve years Beowult, a thane of Hygelac, King of the Goths, hearing of HroNgar's calamities, sails from Sweden with fourteen warriors to help him They reach the Danish coast in safety, and, after an animated parley with HroSgar's coastguard, who at first takes them for pirates, they are allowed to proceed to the royal hall, where they are well received by Hrodgar. A banquet ensues, during which Beowulf is taunted by the envious Hunferh 8 about his swimming-match with Breca, King of the Brondings. Bedwulf gives the true account of the contest, and silences HunferhS. At night-fall the King departs, leaving Beowulf in charge of the hall Grendel soon breaks in, seizes and devours one of Beówulf's companions; is attacked by Beowulf, and, after losing an arm, which is torn off by Beówulf, The joy of HroNgar and the Danes, and their fesescapes to the fens tivities, are described, various episodes are introduced, and Beówulf and his companions receive splendid gifts. The next night Grendel's mother revenges her son by carrying off Eschere, the friend and councillor of HroNgar, during the absence of Beówulf. HroNgar appeals to Beówulf for vengeance, and describes the haunts of Grendel and his mother. They all proceed thather; the scenery of the lake, and the monsters that dwell in it, are described Beówulf plunges into the water. and attacks Grendel's mother in her dwelling at the bottom of the lake. He at length overcomes her, and cuts off her head, together with that of Grendel, and brings the heads to HroSgar. He then takes leave of Hrogar, sails back to Sweden, and relates his adventures to Hygelac.

Here the first half of the poem ends The second begins with the accession of Beówulf to the throne, after the fall of Hygelac and his He rules prosperously for fifty years, till a dragon, brooding over a hidden treasure, begins to ravage the country, and destroys Beowulf's palace with fire. Beowulf sets out in quest of its hidingplace, with twelve men Having a presentiment of his approaching end, he pauses and recals to mind his past life and exploits - He then takes leave of his followers, one by one, and advances alone to attack the Unable, from the heat, to enter the cavern, he shouts aloud, and the dragon comes forth. The dragon's scaly hide is proof against Beówulf's sword, and he is reduced to great straits Then Wiglaf, one of his followers, advances to help him Wiglaf's shield is consumed by the dragon's flery breath, and he is compelled to seek shelter under Beówulf's shield of iron. Beówult's sword snaps asunder, and he is seized by the dragon. Wiglaf stabs the dragon from underneath, and Beówulf cuts it in two with his dagger Feeling that his end is near, he bids Wiglaf bring out the treasures from the cavern, that he may see them before he dies. Wiglaf enters the dragon's den, which is described, returns to Beówulf, and receives his last commands. Beowulf dies, and Wiglaf bitterly reproaches his companions for their cowardice. The disastrous consequences of Beówulf's death are then foretold, and the poem ends with his funeral .- II. Sweet, in Warton's History of English Poetry, Vol. II. (ed. 1871). is obscure, but the following may be conjectured:—

The sons of Ohthere, Eánmund and Eádgils, have rebelled against their father (2382), and must, in consequence, depart with their followers from Swiórice, 2205-6, 2380 They come into the country of the Geátas to Heardrêd (2380), but whether with friendly or hostile intent is not stated; but, according to 2203 f., we are to presume that they came against Heardrêd with designs of conquest. At a banquet (on feorme; or feorme, MS.) Heardrêd falls, probably through treachery, by the hand of one of the must have been Eánmund, to whom, according to 2613, "in battle the revenge of Weohstan brings death." Weohstån takes revenge for his murdered king, and exercises upon Eánmund's body the booty-right, and robs it of helm, breastplate, and sword (2616-17), which the slain man had received as gifts from his uncle, Onela, 2617-18. But Weohstån does not speak willingly of this fight, although he has slain Onela's brother's son, 2619-20. -After Heardrêd's and Eánmund's death, the descendant of Ongenbeów, Eádgils, retuins to hishome, 2388. He must give way before Beówulf, who has, since Heardred's death, ascended the throne of the Geátas, 2390. But Beówulf remembers it against him in after days, and the old feud breaks out anew, 2392-94. Eádgils makes an invasion into the land of the Geátas (2394-95), during which he falls at the hands of Beówulf, 2397 The latter must have then obtained the sovereignty over the Sweonas (3005-6. where only the version, Scylfingas, can give a satisfactory sense). Eofor (gen. Eofores, 2487, 2965; dat. Jofore, 2994, 2998), one of the Geátas, son of Wonrêd and brother of Wulf (2965, 2979), kills the Swedish king, Ongenbeów (2487 ff., 2978-82), for which he receives from King Hygelâc, along with other gifts, his only daughter in marriage, 2994-99.

He is the hero of the inserted poem on the Attack in Finnsburg, the obscure incidents of which are, perhaps, as follows: In Finn's castle, Finnsburg, situated in Jutland (1126-28), the Hôcing, Hnäf, a relative - perhaps a brother - of Hildeburg is spending sometime as guest IInaf, who is a liegeman of the Danish king. Healfdene, has sixty men with him (Finnsburg, 38) These are treacherously attacked one night by Finn's men, 1073 For five days they hold the doors of their lodging-place without losing one of their number (Finnsburg, 41, Then, however, Hnäf is slain (1071), and the Dane, Hengest, who was among Hnaf's followers, assumes the command of the beleaguered band. But on the attacking side the fight has brought terrible losses to Finn's men. Their numbers are diminished (1081 f.), and Hildeburg bemoans a son and a brother among the fallen (1074 f, cf. 1116, 1119). Therefore the Frisians offer the Danes peace (1086) under the conditions mentioned (1087-1095), and it is confirmed with oaths (1097), and money is given by Finn in propitiation (1108). Now all who have survived the battle go together to Friesland, the home proper of Finn, and here Hengest remains during the winter, prevented by ice and storms from returning home (Grein). But in spring the feud breaks out anew. Gùðiáf and Osláf avenge Hnaf's fall, probably after they have brought help from home (1150). In the battle, the hall is filled with the corpses of the enemy. Finn himself is killed, and the queen is captured and carried away, along with the booty, to the land of the Danes, 1147–1160.

"Sin I shal beginne the game.

What, welcome be the cut, a Goddes name!"

- we... gefrunon is a variant on the usual epic formula ic gefrägn (174) and mîne gefræge (1777). Exodus, Daniel, Phænix, etc., open with the same formula.

- l. 4. "Soild of the Sheaf, not 'Scyld the son of Scaf', for it is too inconsistent, even in myth, to give a pationymic to a foundling. According to the original form of the story, Sceaf was the foundling; he had come ashore with a sheaf of corn, and from that was named. This form of the story is preserved in Ethelwerd and in William of Malmesbury. But here the foundling is Scyld, and we must suppose he was picked up with the sheaf, and hence his cognomen"—E., p. 105. Cf the accounts of Romulus and Remus, of Moses, of Cyrus, etc.
- 1 6 egsian is also used in an active sense (not in the Gloss), = to terrify

- Beit. xii. 107, 372. Cf. S., Beit. ix. 143 gêtan = cause blood to be shed.

  l. 2950. B. proposes gomela for gôda; "a surprising epithet for a Geat to apply to the 'terrible' Orgentheow.'—IIa. p 99. But "good" does not necessarily mean "morally excellent," as a "good" hater, a "good" fighter.
- 1. 2959. See H.-So. for an explanatory quotation from Paulus Diaconus, etc. B, K, and Th. read segn Higelaces, = H.'s banner uplifted began to pursue the Swede-men.—Best. xii. 108. S. suggests sæcc, = pursunt.
- 2977. gewyrpton: this vb. is also used reflexively in Exod. (Hunt), 130: wyrpton hie wêrige.
- 1 2989 bär is Grundt.'s reading, after the MS. "The surviving victor is the heir of the slaughtered foe."—H.-So. Cf. Hildebrands Lied, 11, 61, 62.
- 1. 2995. "A hundred of thousands in land and rings" (Ha., p. 100) Cf. ll. 2196, 3051. Cf. B., Beit. xii. 20, who quotes Saxo's bis senas gentes and remarks. "Hrolf Kraki, who rewards his follower, for the slaying of the foreign king, with jewels, rich lands, and his only daughter's hand, answers to the Jutish king Hygelâc, who rewards his liegeman, for the slaying of Ongentheów, with jewels, enormous estates, and his only daughter's hand."
- 1. 3006. H -So. suggests Scilfingas for Scyldingas, because, at l. 2397, Beowulf kills the Scylfing Eádgils and probably acquires his lands. Thus 11. 3002, 3005, 3006, would indicate that, after Beowulf's death, the Swedes desired to shake off his hated yoke. Mullenh, however, regards 1, 3006 as a thoughtless repetition of 1, 2053. — Haupts Zeitschr. xiv. 239.

1. 3008. Cf. the same proverb at 1. 256, and Exod. (Hunt.) 1. 293.

1. 3022. E. quotes:

"That token an harp in gle and game And maked a lat and yat it name,"

- IVeber, I. 358.

and from Percy, "The word glee, which peculiarly denoted then art (the minstrels'), continues still in our own language . . . it is to this day used in a musical sense, and applied to a peculiar piece of composition."

1. 3025. "This is a timer use than usual of the common poetic attendants of a battle, the wolf, the eagle, and the raven. The three are here like three Valkyrie, talking of all that they have done."—Bi., p. 57.

1. 3033. Cf. Hunt's Dan. 1 731, for similar language.

1. 3039. B. supplies a supposed gap here:

[banan eác fundon (nê) aer ht þein gesêgan syllîcran wiht] wyrm on wonge . . . — Beit. xii. 372.

Cf. IIa., p. 102. W and Ho. insert [pær] before gesêgan.

l. 3042. Cf. l. 2561, where gryre-giest occurs as an epithet of the dragon. B. proposes gry[re-fah].

1. 3044. lyft-wynne, in the fride of the air, E.; to rejoice in the air, Ha.

1. 3057. (1) He (God) is men's hope; (2) he is the hences' hope; (3) gehyld = the secret place of enchanters, cf. hêlsmanna gehyld, Gr.'s reading, after A.-S. hælsere, haruspes, augur.

1. 3060. D. suggests gehfode, = plundered (i.e. by the thief), for gehfode.

Il. 3063-3066. (1) B. suggests wundur [deáde] hwar ponne eorl ellenrof ende gefêre = let a brave man then somewhere meet his end by wondrous venture, etc — Lachers Zeitschr. 1v 241; cf. l. 3038. (2) S. supposes an indirect question introduced by hwar and dependent upon wundur, = a mystery is it when it happens that the hero is to die, if he is no longer to langer among his people. — Beit. ix. 143. (3) Müllenh. suggests: is it to be wondered at that a man should die when he can no longer live? — Zachers Zeitschr. xiv. 241. (4) Possibly thus:

Wundran hwát Þonne, eorl ellen-iôf, ende gefere ltf-gesceafta, þonne leng ne mäg (etc.), in which hwät would = purh hwät at 1 3069, and eorl would be subject of the conjectural vb. wundrað: "the valrant earl wondereth then through what he shall attain his life's end, when he no longer may live. . . . So Beówulf knew not (wondered how) through what his end should come," etc. W. and Ho join ponne to the next line. Or, for hwâr read wære Wundur wære ponne (= gif), etc., = "would it be any wonder if a brave man," etc , which is virtually Müllenhoff's.

l. 3053. galdre bewunden, spell-bound, throws light on l. 2770, gelocen leogo-craftum. The "accursed" gold of legend is often dragon-guarded and placed under a spell. Even human ashes (as Shakespeare's) are thus banned. Il 3047-3058 recall the so-called "Treasury of Atreus."

1. 3073. herh, hearh, temple, is conjectured by E to survive in Harrow. Temple, barrow, etc, have thus been raised to proper names. Cf. Biówulfes biorh of l. 2808

1. 3074 H.-So has strude, = ravage, and compares 1 3127. MS. has strade. S. suggests stride, = tread

l. 3074. H.-So. omits strådan, = tread, stride over, from the Gloss., referring ll 3174 and 3074 to strådan, q.v

1. 3075 S. proposes näs hê goldhwätes gearwor haifde, etc., = Beowulf had not before seen the greedy possessor's favor — Beit. ix. 143. B. reads, goldhwäte gearwor haifde, etc., making goldhwäte modify êst, = golden favor, but see Beit xii 373, for B's later view

1. 3086-3087. B translates, "that which (i.e. the treasure) drew the king thither was granted indeed, but it overwhelmed us."—Beit. xii. 109.

1. 3097. B. and S. propose äfter wine deádum, = in memory of the dead friend. — Beit ix 144.

1. 3106. The brâd gold here possibly includes the iú-monna gold of 1. 3053 and the wunden gold of 1. 3135. E. translates brâd by bullion

1. 3114. B. supposes folc-agende to be dat. sg to godum, referring to Beowulf.

1. 3116. C considers weaxan, = Lat. vescor, to devour, as a parallel to fretan, and discards parentheses — Beit. vin. 573.

1. 3120 fûs = furnished with; a meaning which must be added to those in the Gloss.

ll. 3124-3125. S. proposes:

eóde eahta sum under inwit-hrôf hilderinca: sum on handa bär, etc.

- Beit. ix. 144.

1. 3136. H.-So. corrects (after B.) to avelinge, the MS. having e.

1. 3145. "It was their [the Icelanders'] belief that the higher the smoke rose in the air the more glorious would the burnt man be in heaven."—

Ynglinga Saga, 10 (quoted by E) Cf. the funeral pyre of Herakles.

1. 3146-3147. B. conjectures.

. . . swôgende lêc wôpe bewunden windblonda lêg

(lee from lacan, see Closs).—Best xii. 110 Why not windblonda lac?

1 3147. Mullenhoff rejected wind-blond gelag because a great fire raises rather than "lays" the wind, hence B., as above, = "swoughing sported the flame wound with the howling of wind-currents."

1. 3151 seg. B restores conjecturally:

swylce giômor-gyd sto geó-meowle
[äfter Beówulfe] bunden-heorde [song] sorg-cearig, sæde geneahhe, þat hió hyre [hearm-]dagas hearde on [dr]êde, walfylla worn, [w]igendes egesan, hŷ[n] o ond haftnŷd, heóf on rice wealg.

- Bert. xii. 100.

Here ge6-meowle = old woman or widow, bunden-heorde = with bound locks. heôf = lamentation; cf. l. 3143. on rîce wealg is less preferable than the MS reading, heofon rêce swealg = heaven swallowed the smoke.—II-So. B. thinks Beowulf's widow (ge6meowle) was probably Hygd; cf. ll. 2370, 3017-3021.

- l. 3162. H.-So reads (with MS) bronda be lase, for betost, and omits colon after bêen. So B., Zachers Zeitschr w. 224.
- 1. 3171. E. quotes Gibbon's accounts of the burial of Attila when the "chosen squadrons of the IIun, wheeling round in measured evolutions, chanted a funeral song to the memory of a hero."

ll. 3173-3174. B. proposes:

wolden gên cwtoan [ond] kyning wordgyd wrecan ond ymb wel sprecan.

- Beit. xii. 112.

1. 3183. Z., K., Th. read manna for mannum.

1. 3184. "It is the English ideal of a hero as it was conceived by an Englishman some twelve hundred years ago." — Br., p. 18.

NOTES TO THE FIGHT AT FINNSBURG.

The original MS. of this fragment has vanished, but a copy had been made and printed by Hickes in his Thesaurus Linguarum Septentrionalium, 1. 192. The original was written on a single sheet attached to a codex of homilies in the Lambeth Libiary. Moller, Alleng. Epos, p. 65, places the fragment in the Finn episode, between ll 1146 and 1147. Bugge (Bert xii. 20) makes it illustrate the conflict in which Hnaf fell, i.e. as described in Beówulf as antecedent to the events there given. Heinzel (Anseiger f. d. Allert.), however, calls attention to the fact that Hengest in the fragment is called cyning, whereas in Beówulf, 1 1086, he is called begn. See H.-So, p. 125.

"The Fight at Finnsburg and the lays from which our Bebwulf was composed were, as it seems to me, sung among the English who dwelt in the north of Denmark and the south of Sweden, and whose tribal name was the Jutes or Goths."—Br., p. 101.

- l. I. R supposes [hor]nas, and conjectures such an introductory conversation as follows: "Is it dawning in the east, or is a fiery diagon flying about, or are the turrets of some castle buining?" questions which the king negatives in the same order. Then comes the positive declaration, "rather they are warriors marching whose armor gleams in the moonlight."—Alt- und Angels. Lesebuch, 1861 Heinzel and B. conjecture, [beorhtor hor]nas byrnað næfre. So. G.—Beit. Mi. 22; Anzeiger f. d. Altert. x. 229.
  - 1. 5. B. conjectures fugelas to mean arrows, and supplies:

ac hêr forð berað [fyrdsearu rıncas, flacre flânbogan], fugelas singað.

He compares Saxo, p. 95, cristatis galeis hastisque sonantibus instant, as explanatory of 1. 6.—Beit. xii. 22. But see Brooke, Early Eng Literature, who supposes fugelas = raven and eagle, while græg-hama is = wolf (the "grey-coated one"), the ordinary accompaniers of battle.

l. 11. hiegeað, etc.: cf. Maldon, l. 5; Exod l. 218.

1. 15. Cf. B. (Beit. x11. 25), etc., and Saxo, p 101, for l. 13.

ll. 18-21. H.-So remarks: "If, according to Moller and Bugge, Gårulf is one of the attackers, one of Finn's men, this does not harmonize with his character as Gåðlål's son (l. 33), who (l. 16, and Beówulf, l. 1149) is a Dane, therefore one of Finn's antagonists." B. (Best xii. 25) conjectures:

bâ gyt Gûðdene Gârulf styrode, bāt hê swâ freólic feorh forman siðe tổ pere healle durum hyrsta ne bere, nû hie nila heard anyman wolde;

in which Gûö'dene is the same as Sigefei 8, 1 24, hê (l. 22) refers to Gârulf; and hîe (l 21) to hyrsta

- 1 27. swader = either (bad or good, life or death). II -So.
- 1. 29. cclod. meaning doubtful, cf Maldon, 1. 283. G. ienders "curved board"; Sw suggests "round"? "hollow"?
- 1 30. B. suggests bar-helm, = boar-helm Cf. Saxo, p. 96 Bert. xii. 26.
- 1 34. B. conjectures: (1) hwearf flaera hraw hrafen, wandrode; (2) hwearf flaera hraw hrafen fram öörum = flew from one corpse to another. Bert. xii 27.
- I. 43. B. supposes wund hales to be a Dane, folces hyrde to be Ilnaf, in opposition to Holtzmann (Germania, viii 494), who supposes the wounded man to be a Frisian, and folces hyrde to be their king, Finn. Bett. vii 28
- 1. 45. B. adopts Th's reading heresceorp unhrôr = equipments useless. — Best. vii. 28.
- l. 47. "Though wounded, they had retained their strength and activity in battle." B., Bett. xii. 28.
